

A planned visit to Univ. of Minnesota's Landscape Arboretum far exceeded my expectations. This is one place you've got to visit if you are ever even close to the small town of Chanhassen, MN, about 50 miles west of Minneapolis. I have to say it equals or exceeds many world-class gardens I have visited elsewhere in terms of size, beauty, diversity and educational value. To have this associated with a land-grant University is astounding. I've got hundreds of photos but none of them do it justice.

Best Regards,

Cathy

*A Postcard
from Cathy
Neal*