

Land in Trust

Care and Feeding of a Conservation Easement

February 18, 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Harris Center for Conservation Education

Hancock, N.H.

Refreshments provided

For more than 30 years, conservation easements have advanced land protection in the Monadnock Region and beyond, keeping lands in private ownership while safeguarding a myriad of public benefits. With an ever-growing number of easement-protected lands moving from the original grantor's hands to the next generation of owners (or out of the family), questions arise about those easements:

- What does an easement mean for landowners?
- How might an easement affect an owner's plans?
- What are the responsibilities of a land trust that holds the easement?

Come hear from representatives of the Monadnock Conservancy, the Harris Center, UNH Cooperative Extension and other organizations. Share your own perspective and questions.

Please RSVP by calling the UNH Cooperative Extension:
352-4550

UNIVERSITY of NEW HAMPSHIRE
COOPERATIVE EXTENSION