

Tory Jennison

Tory Jennison joined the UNH Cooperative Extension's Advisory Council in Strafford County in 2013 and has served as Vice-Chair since 2015. Tory has been the Continuum of Care Facilitator for the Seacoast Public Health Network since July 2015. She is responsible for regional substance abuse strategic planning and network development for prevention, treatment and recovery and provides guidance to emergency preparedness and community health improvement initiatives including mental health, chronic disease and injury prevention work in the region's 23 communities. A nurse with clinical experience in emergency and home health care, Tory earned her undergraduate and graduate degrees from UNH. To compliment an eclectic background in local, regional and national public health research, planning and policy, Tory completed doctoral coursework in both nursing and public health at Yale University, earning her PhD in Public Affairs from the University of Central Florida. She is an Associate in the LeadershipNH class of 2016 and currently serves as Board Chair for Rochester Youth Reach, an advocacy coalition for homeless youth. Tory grew up in Barrington and is glad to be raising her four children back in the Seacoast where they can enjoy many Cooperative Extension programs and resources.
