

VOLUNTEER

Speaking for Wildlife

Discover New Hampshire's
Wildlife and Habitats

MAKE A CONNECTION

Extension

The University of New Hampshire Cooperative Extension is an equal opportunity educator and employer. University of New Hampshire, U.S. Department of Agriculture and N.H. counties cooperating.

Speaking for Wildlife

From the peaks of the White Mountains to the Atlantic coastline, from our backyards to the backcountry, New Hampshire is home to a great diversity of wildlife species. Get involved in the Speaking for Wildlife program, either as a volunteer speaker or by hosting a talk, and learn about wildlife species and their habitats in the Granite State.

Speaking for Wildlife volunteers are trained to provide information about natural resources and wildlife through presentations and field walks, with support from UNH Cooperative Extension staff. Programs are free and available to community groups throughout New Hampshire.

To learn more about volunteering or request a program:

speakingforwildlife.org

CONTACT

Haley Andreozzi
Wildlife Outreach Coordinator
UNH Cooperative Extension
haley.andreozzi@unh.edu
603.862.5327

Extension

PARTNERS

FOCUS AREAS
Wildlife
Nature
Speakers Bureau
Presentations
Field Walks

PROGRAMS INCLUDE

- NH's Wild History
- Birds, Bats & Butterflies
- A Garden for Wildlife
- The Nature of NH: Natural Communities in the Granite State
- NH's Bats
- NH Bugs: The Big Three
- Speaking for Wildlife Field Walks

