

VOLUNTEER

NH Coverts Project

Volunteers Working for Wildlife

MAKE A CONNECTION

Extension

The University of New Hampshire Cooperative Extension is an equal opportunity educator and employer. University of New Hampshire, U.S. Department of Agriculture and N.H. counties cooperating.

NH Coverts Project

Volunteers Working for Wildlife

NH Coverts volunteers are landowners, local decision-makers, teachers, business people, writers, retirees — anyone who wants to help wildlife in New Hampshire.

GET TRAINED Volunteers attend a one-time 3½- day training workshop held each spring. You'll learn about wildlife conservation, forest stewardship, and effective outreach from a team of natural resource professionals.

TAKE ACTION In exchange for the training, volunteers become wildlife and forest stewards in their communities and motivate others to do the same. Since 1999, Coverts volunteers have made a difference for New Hampshire's wildlife by managing habitat, promoting a stewardship ethic, serving on town boards, protecting land, and much more.

To learn more & apply:
nhcoverts.org

CONTACT

Haley Andreozzi

Project Coordinator

UNH Cooperative Extension

haley.andreozzi@unh.edu

603.862.5327

FOCUS AREAS

Wildlife

Forests

Habitat

Conservation

Outreach

THERE ARE CURRENTLY OVER 400 ACTIVE COVERTS VOLUNTEERS WORKING IN 165+ NEW HAMPSHIRE COMMUNITIES

PARTNERS

University of New Hampshire

Cooperative Extension

